

MISSISSIPPIAN 359 MILLION YEARS AGO

Michigan was flooded over and over again by shallow seas during the Mississippian Period. This continual flooding deposited sedimentary rocks such as gypsum, limestone, shale and sandstone. The bedrock directly underlying Muskegon formed during this Period.